1. Prior to 2 March 1953, no equipment which might have been useful for further construction work at Mahlwinkel airfield was observed arriving. No new workers were observed either. The airfield continued to be guarded by two civilians from Mahlwinkel. On 2 March, source observed that the surface of the field was wet. The field had been rolled and sown with grass.
2. On 28 March, neither tarmac nor runways were available at the field. No runway matting were observed. The newly sown grass was showing in the western portion of the field. No construction work was observed at the field.

25X1A  Comment. The improvement of Mahlwinkel airfield is completed. It is doubted that the surface of the field will prove compact enough.
